Two Days Later By Packet-ship LIVERFOOL. O'Connell's Speech-Death of General Bertrand-Cotton Market, &c. The fine packet-ship Liverpool, Captain Eldridge, arrived last night from Liverpool, bring. ing London dates to the evening of the 5th ult. and Liverpool to the 6th.

Wm. Niblo, Esq. arrived passenger in the Liv.

The speculation fever in the Cotton Market had abated somewhat of its intensity, and transactions were comparatively small. Prices were firm, however. Speculators for the moment appeared to be satisfied.

This arrival brings us news of the death of several distinguished personages-General Bertrand, so lately the honored guest of this country, and the friend and companion of Napoleon, died at Chateauroux on the 1st Feb. The announcement of this event was the signal for general mourning throughout France. In the Chamber of Deputies, in announcing the death of the faithful companion of Napoleon in his adversity, M. de Bricqueville said, "his loss will be keenly felt by all well-thinking men. We have now a duty to fulfill-to unite his ashes to those of the Emperor. The Chamber, in so doing, will perform an act for which France will feel grateful."

The Infanta Carlotta, sister of the King of Naples, the Duchess of Berry, &c., died at Madrid on the 30th January. "This event (says the Times) derives importance from the prospect it opens of the marriage of her son with the Queen Isabella, and the consequent settlement of the affairs of Spain."

Ireland.

The State Trials .- On Saturday, 3d, Mr. M'Donah addressed the Court on behalf of Mr. Barrett, and Mr. Henn on behalf of Mr. Steele. During the day Mr. O'Connell applied to the Court that his address might be adjourned until Monday, and the Court complied. On Monday, then, at 10 o'clock precisely, their Lordships took their seats upon the Bench, and as soon as the names of the traversers and Jury were called over, Mr. O'Con-NELL rose and commenced his speech, which was very long, and occupied the Court throughout the day. The Court was crowded with an immense throng of eager listeners. Mr. O'Connell disclaimed having ever violated any law or having ever been actuated by any motive save a desire to serve his country. He, however, acknowledged himself a Repealer, and avowed that, with the most upright intentions his acts, since he first began that course of conduct which had brought him before their Lordships, had for their end and object the Repeal of the Union. "I tell you (he exclaimed) I cannot bear it-it was forced upon the Irish people by the most foul and unjustifiable means that ever a Government had recourse to, and I have the highest authority for saying so." He then went on, as he said, not to take back any of the sentiments he had advocated, but to repeat the substance of every thing he had previously said.

Mr. O'Connell ridiculed the idea of his course n behalf of Repeal being charged upon him as a conspiracy, and displayed with much power and biting irony the mockery of calling that a conspiracy which had been transacted at noon-day, and published upon the winds. If there be a conspiracy, where is it? Where the time, the place, the circumstances, the actors? No specifications were made, and it was not at all certain that he was even supposed to have been present at ! But if so, he certainly should have been formed of the time at which the conspiracy took place, that he might have the benefit of an alibi if he could make it out! Instead of the unraveling of dark and horrible machinations and treasonable conferences, the Attorney General has occupied eleven mortal hours in reading and commenting upon extracts from newspapers which you had all read long ago, and knew all about, and has then thrown these dreadful newspapers into the jury-box in a heap, and told the jury, "there they are-help yourselves to the conspiracy!" He had told them nothing, proved nothing, hinted at nothing new-no new developments-nothing which all the world did not already know. Was this the way to establish a conspiracy? To prove its charge of conspiracy the prosecution relied first upon the public meetings in favor of Repeal, and next upon the newspapers. The idea of a conspiracy, from such facts, was absurd. Would slavery have been abolished if its advocates had entered into a conspiracy? And yet they held their public meetings, and made bitter and unrelenting enemies, and had their newspapers, and their calumniators, and had done and suffered exactly the same as the friends of Irish Repeal-and their leading men, with equal propriety, ought to have been prosecuted for conspiracy; they should have indicted Wilberforce, who has written his name upon the most prominent pages of history as the strenwous advocate of freedom—and who willnever be forgotten while a feeling of humanity exexists-he should have been indicted for conspiracy. The venerable Clarkson, too, should not have escaped. Convict us, and he is not free in his old age. By the names of Wilberforce and Clarkson I conjure you to dismiss from your box they, too, held public meetings and received money—why were they not indicted for Conspiracy?

Mr. O'Connell then went on to examine in detail the two classes of charges which had been made against the prisoners—monster meetings and newspaper publications. We have not room to follow him through his eloquent, scorching and powerful address. After a searching examination of the various points in the accusation, the speaker went into an elaborate and statistical argument to show the claims of Ireland to an independent Parliament, and how much it had in independent Parliament, and how much it had in the Erection of Buildings. EXTENSION OF THE AMERICAN TRADE AT HULL. -It is rumored that there is a company projected for establishing a regular line of packets between New-York and Hull. At present a large portion of the American produce, including cotton, that s thrown into sale and consumption at Hull, as well as in the manufacturing towns with which Hull has a means of cheap and easy communication, is imported at Liverpool, the dock dues at which port being much heavier than those at Hull, and the inland carriage expensive, there is a decided advantage in importing such produce Hull Packet.

SLAVE TRADE .- In the House of Commons on the 5th, in answer to a question by Lord J. Rus. sel, Sir R. Peel said negotiations were going forward with the United States, for the purpose of coming to an amicable adjustment for the suppression of the slave trade.

Correspondence of The Tribune.

ALBANY, March 4. There was a move upon the political chessboard, the last week, which requires a passing notice. I refer to the action of the Senate upon the bill to receive the $84,000 of the Public Land money and apply it towards the capital of the Common School Fund. I believe that I wrote in one of my former letters, that this bill would pass the Senate by a decided majority. Such was the opinion of every man here, Whig and Loco Foco. I may say without fear of contradiction, that it was known that a majority would vote for the bill. What, you ask, produced the change? for your readers are already advised that the bill has been rejected by a strong vote, and that too, un- animously adopted. der the direct operation of the party gag-and the roll call of the party whistle, blown by the party boatswain and fugle-man. Perhaps I should not be far amiss, if I pointed you for the reason to that special and extraordinary mission of the Sage of Lindenwald to the Capital. I only know this, that soon after his arrival a change of front was visible. The party gong was sounded-the whippers-in indefatigable-the "Magician" superintends the operation, and the result you see. Let the party have all the benefit of this infamous act. Here is this sum, admitted to be ours, rejected, and now lying idle in the vaults of the Commercial Bank of this City-I say idle, because I understand the Bank has given notice they will pay interest no longer-and vet Martin Van Buren, to show his utter abhorrence of the Distribution Policy, compels his subjects to reject the money. Let him enjoy the victory. I am happy to say that the Whigs were ably represented on this question. Politics were dragged in of course, to give force to the party gag, but in playing at this game, our opponents were most famously worsted. Messrs. RHOADES and HARD carried the war into Africa with great effect .--The Whigs in the Senate are few in number, but they are a noble band of brothers-indefatigable in their advocacy of Whig principles, another name for the principles of the People. A Protective Tariff was sneered at and denounced by Senators Johnson, Wright, Foster & Co. but successfully sustained the identity of a Protective Tariff with the best interests and prosperity of the

A tub has been thrown out to the whale in the shape of the election of Admiral Hoffman as Speaker pro tem of the Assembly in the absence of Speaker Litchfield. It is but an empty compliment, and will not, I think, produce any very extensive profits to the "Old Hunkers." But the Admiral makes a good Speaker, and the Legislative business goes on now like clock work.

The bill to repeal the distributive portion of the law of 1842, which gave copies of the Natural Senate. There is evidently a growing hope that The Hon. Samuel Beardsley, the recent- the political death of Col. Sam. Young, is not Board of Inspectors, and the general manage. rives. Then the plunder can be distributed. > too, from Locofocos, that my unbelief was much shaken. The statement, however, was incorrect, and arose from the connection of his name with Legislature, and if passed by them, to be subthat of Surrogate STRYKER. Nothing has tran- mitted to the people for their approval or disapspired to disturb the friendly relations between proval. The report was referred to the Commit-Messrs. Foster and Bouck.

The State Prison bill has now been discussed in the Assembly nearly an entire week. No question has been taken decisive of the final determination of the House in regard to this bill.—
Its friends are still sanguine of success, and I think the prospects are favorable, so far as the Assembly is concerned, although I apprehend a Assembly is concerned, although I apprehend a resolution for the Exemption Law—lost.—Mr. Lee in Law and Davis More and Davis Means of the Senate of t these two grounds, viz: 1st. That the project is visionary and impracticable, and 2d, that it was but shifting the burden from the shoulders of them. These positions have been ably combat. ted on the other side. The speeches of Messrs. CARPENTER, HUBBELL and PALMER, were eminently creditable to them. But the best speechthe most practical, able and satisfactory, was that of Mr. Huntington of Ontario, of whom I have spoken favorably heretofore. His appeals were well and effectively made, and were listened to with thrilling interest. Major DAVEZAC was in ecstacies, and was most lavish in his commendations. It appears in this evening's Journal. The mechanics are willing to rest their case upon his reasonings and arguments. Mr. Carr of your the mechanics in the celebrated session of 1835, did himself much credit in his speech yesterday. The celebrated "cutlery contract" underwent a most scorching review.

The speeches on "Constitutional Reform," as you have been made aware by the published proceedings, have begun. Judging from the progress thus far made it smacks strongly of a Fourth of July affair. Nearly a week has elapsed and the ball is yet hardly opened. The unequivocal declarations of the old Admiral that not a dollar is to be appropriated for the Public Works until the entire State debt is paid off, produces considerable squirming. The period fixed by Hoff-MAN is, to use his own language, "two and twenty years and a half!"

The Senate are yet at sea on the bill to decapitate the Medical Profession. Senator Scorr's Guillotine cut too deep, and sympathy has produced a reaction. I regret to inform you that Senator Varian has been detained from his seat or several weeks by severe indisposition.

Haddonfield, New-Jersey, April 26, 1343.
On or about the 13th day of October, 1341. I was taken with a violent pain in the side near the liver, which continued for about five days, and was followed by the breaking of an ulcer, or something inwardly, which relieved the pain a little, but caused me to throw up a great quantity of off-msive mater and also much blood. Being greatly alarmed at thia, I applied to a physician, but he said he though he could do but little for me except give me some Mercury Pills, which I refused to take, feeling satisfied they could do me no good;—many other remedies were then procured by my wife and friends, but none done me any good, and the discharge of blood and corruption still continued every few days, and at last became so offensive I could scarcely breathe. BOARDING SCHOOL—Irving Institute, Tarry town, N. Y.—WILLIAM P. LYON, A. M. Principal Summer Session commences first of May. To those who desire to place sons at Boarding School, the advantages affered at this Institution are believed equal if not superior to any, it has been in successful operation six years. The leaction delightful and salubrious, is convenient of access from the city. The Edifice is commodious and comfortable—the play-grounds ample, and disconnected from the vallage. The government is efficient but mild, resembling that of a well regulated Christian family; and no Day-scholars are received to counteract the salutary influence of family training.

The system of instruction is designed not merely to advance and perfect the pupil in the branches studied, but to develop and instruct the judgment, to enlighten the understanding, to form the habits, and to give a moral and useful direc-
